

20 hour Specialist Module: Survival Teaching

Whether you'll be teaching large classes or with limited resources, this course covers key survival topics. This 20 hour specialist TEFL module is designed for teachers who will be teaching in an under-resourced school or where there are lots of students in one class. Whether you're new to English teaching or experienced, this course will develop your ability to think on your feet as well as have the skills to know which activities are suits to your student group size.

What's covered?

Survival Teaching

- Teaching large classes
- Teaching with limited resources
- Learner-based training
- Cultural awareness

Large class sizes are common in Asian countries where you may have 50 - 100 students in one class. It's important to understand how to change your lesson plans to suit classes of this size so that your lessons are effective and interesting. Volunteer English teachers would also benefit from this specialist module as they will often find themselves in a classroom with very little teaching resources. No matter where you travel to teach, cultural awareness is key for success when living and working in a culture different to your own.

Who should complete the 20 hour Survival Teaching Module?

- TEFL newbies - dip your toe into the world of TEFL with this an introductory TEFL course.
- Teachers in development – hone your English teaching skills for specific TEFL roles including adult learners and teaching with limited resources or large class sizes.
- If you want to combine your TEFL travels with some volunteer work in underdeveloped countries where resources are scarce then Survival Teaching is the module for you.
- You can upgrade your TEFL qualification at any time.
- If you're not sure if this course is right for you, speak to a TEFL advisor who'll give you expert advice.

Benefits of taking the 20 hour TEFL Course

- Gives you an excellent foundation in the principles teaching with limited resources or to large class sizes.
- Ideal for anyone planning to become a volunteer English teacher or experienced teachers looking to refresh their TEFL knowledge.
- Greater range of modules to enable you to broaden your TEFL job search.